Minimum entry grades: a grade 6 in the chosen language.

"If you talk to a man in a language he understands, it goes to his head. If you talk to him in his own language, it goes to his heart."

Why study it?

Learning another language not only develops your understanding of another country's language and culture, it opens your eyes to other ways of thinking and perspectives.

In a globalised market it can set it can set you apart from the competition.

This subject is for you if…

- You are passionate about learning a language.
- You are keen to expand your understanding of another country and its culture.
- You enjoy speaking and communicating with others.
- You like the challenge of understanding how language works.

Where can it lead you?

You can study a degree in the language you study at A-level, or a joint degree with a variety of other subjects such as business management, law, history or politics.

Careers: Translating, interpreting or teaching are common. Additionally, sectors such as finance, law, journalism, sales, marketing or tourism.